Kurt Warner, at left, and Jamal Lewis, below, will be two of the most important players in the playoffs. Warner for obvious reasons; Lewis because he has a cake schedule the rest of the way.

The 'P' Word

Apes, Barons Get Down to It

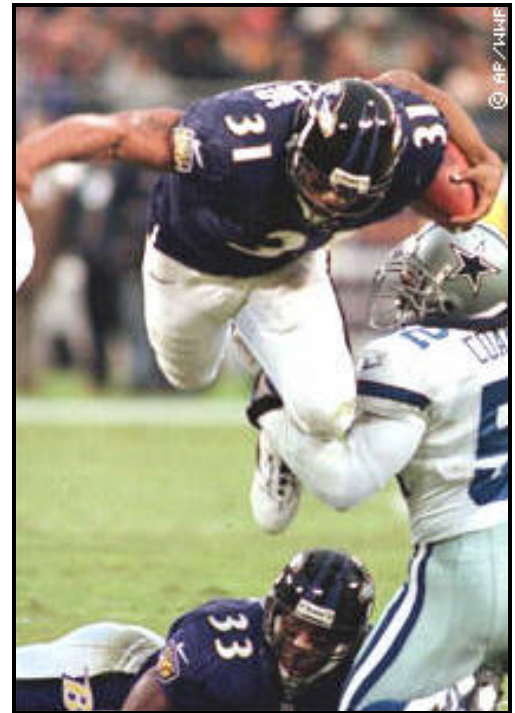

One scenario has both teams making playoffs, but both need this

By Pushpin Papoo
TFL Today

Having broken open a close game late in a big win over East Hartford last week, the Baltimore Barons take their playoff case to Narcoossee this week as two suddenly 7-5 teams tangle.

Baltimore trailed by a few until Rod Smith and Jason Elam began play, and even then they crawled ahead a point at a time. But Smith scored and fattened his yardage totals over a few-minute span of the fourth quarter against San Diego, and the Barons suddenly had an insurmountable lead. East Hartford fell to 6-6 and plays Bagdad for its playoff life this week.

Rather than overdue the virtals, ifs, likelys and probablys, let's just say the Narcoossee-Baltimore game is vital to both teams. The team that wins can finish no worse than 8-6 - but the loser can also finish with that mark. Both teams own victories over both Bagdad and East Hartford, in case either of those guys ends up 8-6 as well.

To draw any more scenarios would be wasting time, but if anybody out there cares to, have it at.
