Twain shall meet again

For Baltimore, third appearance in franchise history; Dawgs' first

By Pushpin Papoo
TFL Today

It's been destined to come to this since Dutch Harbor pulled the trigger on Daunte Culpepper in the first round. How could a team not mop the floor with its first five opponents after that?

Or maybe it's been destined to come to this since that eerily significant, 89-37 caning the Dawgs hung on Baltimore in Week 5.

Or maybe since Dutch Harbor dropped Travis Prentice after that game, and Baltimore snatched him to plug a bye week hole.

What has happened since then? Baltimore started scoring points, in the considered opinion of rocket science's best analytical minds. In seven of their next eight games, the Barons scored 74, 57, 74, 58, 42, 50 and 58 points, spearheaded by All-Pro seasons from Rich Gannon, Tim Brown and Rod Smith, with first-round pick James Stewart rebounding from a slow start to score 11 touchdowns as of this writing - six in his last seven games.

It wasn't the stuff of Marshall Faulk or Mike Anderson, but the team with both of them finished 5-8-1.

Dutch Harbor wasn't exactly a one-man team. The Dawgs surrounded Daunte with the likes of Jamal Anderson, Marcus Robinson and Jeff Wilkins.

Then a mid-season skid produced a trade that netted Torry Holt and ## 111? Believe it!

A suddenly self-important - and probably justifiably - Van Williams forced a re-examination of the records this week, and defied the imagination. The Willow Weasels edged the Anchorage Kitchen, 111-38, in the Pee Wee Bowl semifinals. (Gory details, scoring page)

"My team can't be stopped right now. Whichever team is lucky enough to claim the T-Rex had better thank somebody for not having to play me," Williams bellowed.

An unmoved Michael Bourque, a new father of twins, told Williams "the road ends here."

The old single-game record for points was 88, set by Dugway in 1996 and tied by Williams himself two weeks ago in the quarterfinals. This fueled a movement afoot to include Pee Wee achievements in the TFL records.

Indeed, this seems to challenge the notion that an asterisk would suffice.

Sebastian Janikowski for Jamal Anderson and David Akers. But that didn't stop the Dawgs from losing six of their last nine, and at one point, owner Casey Brogan told Baltimore's Steve Katz, "I'm really hoping I don't have to play your team again this year."

And now here we are.
